

U. S. AND BRITISH AGREEMENT OVER AIR
BASES IS IMMINENTPresident Arrives at Charleston, W. Va., To Inspect Naval Ordnance Plant

SEE ANOTHER MOVE

Would Crescent the American Coastline; Both Naval and Air Bases

By International News Service

EN ROUTE TO SOUTH CHARLES-TON, W. Va., Sept. 3—Announcement of an agreement between the U. S. and Great Britain over naval and air bases in British possessions crescenting the American coastline was believed imminent today as President Roosevelt turned toward Washington.

Welcomed by Governor Holt, Senator Neely and other West Virginia officials, the President arrived aboard his special train at South Charleston this morning. He planned to inspect the naval ordnance plant on his way home to the White House following a four-day tour of Tennessee.

It was reliably reported that the chief executive, having made an urgent appeal for preparedness "in a thousand ways" to offset threats from home and abroad, was about to make another concrete move in his defense program.

There was reason to believe that England and this government had virtually consummated the negotiations begun some weeks back whereby the U. S. stands to extend its defense to vital air and naval bases in the Western Hemisphere, presumably on Bermuda, Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, Jamaica and Trinidad.

In the Great Smoky Mountains National Park yesterday, Mr. Roosevelt gave a definite hint that the defense agreement with Britain was about ready for announcement.

"New bases must be established to enable our fleet to defend our shores," read the prepared text of the President's Labor Day speech. He interpolated the phrase—"and I think they will be established."

Word came from Bermuda recently that the legislative body of that island was agreeable to a lease on such land and harbor properties as the U. S.
Navy and air corps might deem essential to adequate defense of the Western Hemisphere—and the Panama Canal in particular.

Langhorne Woman Dies
Suddenly at Her Home

LANGHORNE, Sept. 3—Although under the care of a physician for some time, Mrs. Mary Alice Schofield died suddenly last night at her home, 237 Pine street, she being found dead in bed. The discovery was made by her husband, Benjamin Schofield.

Mrs. Schofield, aged 77 years, also leaves two daughters, Mrs. Jason E.
Stoddard, a missionary to Africa; Mrs.
Thomas Bleakley, Langhorne; and two sons, Fred, of Philadelphia; and Harold, of Woodbourne.

The Rev. Robert Scott, pastor of Langhorne Presbyterian Church, will officiate at the service on Friday at two p. m., from the Horner funeral home, here, with interment being made in Oakland Cemetery, Philadelphia.

Robert W. Findlay Weds
Miss Edith Griffenberg

CROYDON, Sept. 3—In St. Luke's Lutheran Church, a pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday afternoon at two o'clock with the Rev. Theodore Kohlmeier officiating. Miss Edith M.
Griffenberg, daughter of Mrs. M. L.
Griffenberg, Philadelphia, formerly a resident of Croydon, became the bride of Mr. Robert W. Findlay, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Findlay, Elm avenue.

The maid of honor was Miss Ruth Griffenberg, sister of the bride; and the groom's attendant was Mr. Harold Findlay, brother of the groom.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white tulle, princess style with V-neck, short puffed sleeves and her finger tip veil fell from a coronet of white gardenias. She wore white satin slippers and lace mitts, and carried a bou-quet of white roses and baby breath.

The maid of honor wore rose color tulle made after the same style as that worn by the bride. A shoulder veil was attached to a tiara of pink rosebuds. She wore white accessories.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the groom's parents, with members of the immediate family as guests. After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Findlay will make their home on Elm avenue.

The wedding sermon was based on Proverbs 3:5-6 and the church a capella choir sang "Thine Forever", the hymn the bride and groom sang with their respective classes at the time of their confirmation.

WILLKIE POPULARITY
IS RUNNING HIGHFactories Are Working Day and Night to Supply the Demand for Trinkets

IS A GOOD BAROMETER

By International News Service
DENVER, Sept. 3.—(INS)—One of those little considered but highly important barometers of public sentiment —the costume jewelry trade—is registering strong feeling among the American people for the candidacy for Wendell L. Willkie for president.

At the same time, President Roosevelt's late revelation of his political intentions is mirrored in a contrasting slump in the sale of Roosevelt ornaments.

"We're only beginning to get deliveries on Roosevelt buttons now," one dealer said, "so it is hard to say yet whether the president will be a best seller."

Demands for Willkie trinkets along with ornamental American flags on the other hand are swamping manufacturers, it is reported. Factories are working day and night to satisfy a ravenous demand that began two weeks before the Republican standard bearer was nominated and has continued unwaveringly ever since.

So enthusiastic are the customers, dealers say, that they are paying all the way from five cents to $500 for a Willkie-embellished gadget. This wholehearted willingness to spend has acted as a shot in the arm to the trade.

Tradesmen feel that the increase in business is reflected in a powerful swing toward the Indiana farm boy who catapulted into the national political limelight only a few short months ago. It is believed that this is a good indication of the voting preferences of the public.

Biggest selling item, according to one dealer, is a Willkie pin, a small, round enamel head bearing the likeness of the GOP nominee. It is fastened to a card reading "Win With Willkie" and is stocked in practically all stores.

"I can't remember handling a larger selling item," he declared.

Other gadgets meeting popular fancy include shields, bracelets, earrings, cigarette cases, tie clips and key-chain guards. A terrific demand for American flag pins on which Willkie banners have been mounted is also evident.

These pins set in red, white and blue-colored stones retail usually at $1.
Other numbers include shining, patriotically-colored rhinestone-studded enameled cockade clips bearing Willkie's name, dangling crystal balls with Willkie's picture and God-Bless-America motifs in plaster bracelets, stone-studded eagles and gold elephants draped with white Willkie banners.

A best seller with one manufacturing firm is a haughty gold American eagle studded with rhinestones. Fall fashions for women will be greatly influenced by a pair of earrings bedecked with the Liberty bell, according to another firm.

A sour note is evinced by some firms who report a collapse of business in French flags. However, manufacturers are making up for it partially by retailing a scarlet rooster holding a blue banner proclaiming "Vive La France," which is selling for the Friends of France charity. Hitler's conquest of the French nation has definitely crimped trade.

Manufacturers are agreed, however, that the loss of business due to the war has been helped enormously by the tide of sentiment for Willkie.

Nazis Protest To Bucharest

Budapest, Sept. 3—The German Government lodged a sharp protest with Bucharest today over a riotous incident by Erassov in which the German Consulate was attacked and a picture of Hitler trampled under foot.

The incident occurred during a series of demonstrations against the Rome-Berlin axis award of half of Transylvania to Hungary.

The German and Italian legations in Bucharest meanwhile remained surrounded by heavy protective forces of Romanian troops armed with machine-guns. Hungarian forces are being concentrated on this side of the frontier to begin occupation of Transylvania on Tuesdays.

Reports in Budapest said strong measures were being taken by the Romanian government to put an end to demonstrations against the Transylvania settlement. Police arrested 280 members of the Fascist Iron Guard who attempted to organize resistance.

Meanwhile, Romanian civilians from Transylvania were reported pouring into Bucharest. Romanian police have evacuated many Transylvanian towns to make way for the Hungarian occupational forces.

London, Sept. 3—Fighting planes of the R. A. F. shot down 1752 enemy aircraft during the first year of the Euro-

POPULAR EVANGELIST
IS COMING TO BRISTOLWalter R. MacDonald Will Be The Speaker at Week of Service

IN CALVARY CHURCH

WALTER R. MACDONALD
Who will conduct evangelistic services this week in the Calvary Baptist Church.

The evangelistic services to be held in Calvary Baptist Church, Wood and Walnut streets, will open this evening at eight o'clock, continuing each night through Sunday evening, September 8th.

The Rev. Lehman Strauss has secured a widely-known evangelist in Walter R. MacDonald as the speaker, who is not only renowned for his Bible teachings and as a Bible conference speaker, but will also be remembered by many in this vicinity as a personality of the radio, stage, and screen.

Before his conversion in the Pacific Garden Mission, Chicago, Ill., a few years ago, Mr. MacDonald was acclaimed by many critics as "The man with the fastest feet in America." He has also traveled the country with Eddie Cantor, making personal appearances together at show places the country over. Mr. MacDonald also won many friends as a talented singer. Besides making many stage appearances with Eddie Cantor, Mr. MacDonald traveled with the famous band of Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians.

Besides bringing the evangelistic messages, Mr. MacDonald will also lead the congregational singing, render a vocal selection or two, and weave in his own life story.

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

Because fewer students than anticipated are entering this year's first grades in the public schools at Morrisville, Manohar R. Reiter, supervising principal, today announced that authorities have decided to set back the admission age two months.

The old regulation allowed children to enter this year's classes if they would be six before February 1, 1941, but the new order will permit children who will be six years old before April 1, 1941, to enter classes this September. The new law gives several more children the right to enter for this year's classes instead of waiting until next year.

The two-month longer period, it is anticipated, will mean several more children entering immediately instead of waiting for the 1941 opening day of school.

Parents who have children eligible through the extension period of two months are asked to contact Principal Reiter immediately, so that their children might start school next Wednesday morning.

At the present time the Royal Pants Company operates four plants in Perkasie, with about 450 employees. One is at Seventh and Market, another at Eighth and Chestnut, another at Ninth and Market, and the main plant is on Walnut street.

The new building which is 154 by 250 feet on the plan, is in the form of an addition to the Walnut street plant.
It is one story high, and modern in construction, with 70 per cent of the wall structure in glass.

Maurice Neiknik, manager for the concern, expects to use the rear of the building for a cutting room, and the front for 400 new machines. The old cutting room, in the building now being used, is to provide space for machines. Mr. Neiknik said he believes all will be ready in a week or two.

The concern has numerous heavy contracts, a number of them for government work. It is the heavy demand by the army that has been largely responsible for the necessity of expansion.

Additional employees will be necessary when the new plant is opened, and these will be drawn from the persons now studying at the training school being operated at Perkassie.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

"Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc."

Attacking The Press

Washington, Sept. 2.
A FEW days ago certain authoritative journalistic reflectors of White House thought and feeling reported that part of the New Deal 1940 strategy
would be an attack upon the newspapers. The President and those close to him, it was said, are "fairly itching" to assail the press, and some "heavy shelling" soon may be expected.

ALREADY there is considerable confirmatory evidence of this intention. Nor is it a bad idea—if they can get away with it. It does involve, however, a degree of hyp-ocrisy from which the more scrupulous politicians would shrink.
In the first place, it requires repetition of the statement that in 1936 the newspapers were solidly against Mr. Roosevelt. That has been said so often that it has come to be generally accepted. But it happens not to be true.

Nuremberg, near Hazleton, was elected a member of the Doyleestown High School faculty to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Edith M. Freed, who was married in July.

Mr. Klinger, a graduate of Blooms-field State Teachers' College, has had two years of teaching experience in Tunkhannock High School. He will teach commercial geography and civics.

Supervising Principal J. Leonard Halderman, who recommended Mr.
Klinger to the board because he is fully certified to teach subjects in the commercial field, said the newly-elected teacher is 25 years old and also has a minor in social studies.

Mr. Halderman, who expressed regret because Miss Freed is leaving, said she became a member of the local high school faculty in 1929. "She was one of our best teachers and we are sorry to lose her," said Mr. Halderman.
Miss Freed became the bride of Silas S. Stein, New York City.

Miss Layle Lane, Ferry road, a Summer resident of New Britain township and teacher of social studies in Benjamin Franklin High School, New York City, was elected vice-president-at-large of the American Federation of Teachers at its 24th annual convention in Buffalo last week.

She was a candidate on a ticket headed by another Bucks county resident, Dr. George S. Counts, of Solebury township, professor of education at Columbia University Teachers' College, New York City.

Other vice-presidents elected on the same slate were: Miss Lila Hunter, Seattle, Wash.; Miss Ruth Dods, Sacramento, Calif.; Miss Amelia Yeager, Madison, Wis.; Arthur Elder, Detroit, Mich.; Miss Mildred Berleman, Chicago; Paul Preiser, St. Louis; Michael Eck, Cleveland; Stanton Smith, Chattanooga; Charles Ettaridge, Augusta, Ga.; Miss Ruth Wanger, Philadelphia;
Miss Jane Souba, New Rochelle, N. Y.; John Connors, Boston, and George Axtelle, Northwestern University.

WILLIAM WOODHOUSE, 75, DIES AT EDGELY HOMEProminent in Musical Circles; Directed Arion Glee Club
Many Years

ILL FOR FOUR YEARS

EDGELY, Sept. 3—William Woodhouse, a prominent resident of Edgely, and active in musical, business and fraternal circles in Trenton, N. J., for many years, died late Saturday night at his home here at the age of 75 years.

Having suffered a stroke four years ago, Mr. Woodhouse was unable to attend to his duties since that time.

The deceased, from 1899 until the time of his illness, conducted the Arion Glee Club of Trenton. He also conducted the Trenton Concert Courses for a number of years, bringing to that capital city many of the world's outstanding musicians. Mr. Woodhouse likewise sang in several church choirs in the Trenton area.

The late Edgelyite operated an advertising business in Trenton, and a number of years ago established and operated the William Woodhouse Chain Manufacturing Company here.
He was a member of the Union Church of Edgely, being actively engaged in affairs of this congregation.

Mr. Woodhouse is survived by his wife, Adaline D. Woodhouse; two daughters, Mrs. John H. Tregurtha, Bucks Countians Saved

$700,000, Is Estimate

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3—Based on a statewide savings of $73,300,000 made possible through modern merchandising methods of multiple-unit stores, Bucks County residents were estimated to have increased their purchasing power last year by $700,000, the Pennsylvania Chain Store Council announced today in a survey report.

The mass distribution system employed by these stores, and its resultant lowering of over-the-counter prices, not only piled up savings that were circulated among farmers and processors of the county, according to the study, but raised living standards generally, enabling Pennsylvania families to enjoy more of life's necessities.

Independently-owned establishments annually conduct about 69 per cent of the state's retail business, the chain stores, 25 per cent, leaving fully six per cent for house-to-house and catalog selling, the report indicated.

The yearly economic contribution of chain stores to the state's wealth was estimated at $695,000,000—equivalent to about $70 for each Bucks County citizen. This contribution consisted of the following:

Purchases from Pennsylvania manufacturers and producers, $404,200,000; rentals or rental value of local real estate owned by chain stores, $39,- 500,000; newspaper and radio advertising, $10,800,000; freight, trucking, fuel and local services, $42,200,000; wages, $104,800,000; federal, state and local taxes, $20,700,000; savings to consumers through lower retail prices, $73,- 300,000.

MOTORCYCLE RACER
KILLED AT LANGHORNEGeorge Matheson Meets Death When Machine Skids In 100-Mile Race

WIFE WITNESSES CRASH

LANGHORNE, Sept. 3—A woman sat in the grandstand at the Speedway here yesterday afternoon and saw her husband killed. George Matheson, 32, Paterson, N. J., motorcycle racer, met death instantly when his machine skid-ded shortly after the start of the 100-mile national motorcycle championship races.

Matheson was entering the stretch on the second lap when his accident occurred. He was thrown high in the air and landed on the track.

While other machines raced on an official run out on the track, stood over the unconscious man and waved a red flag to warn the other racers.

Two spectators braved the danger and rushed out to carry Matheson to the side of the track. Dr. Alfred Tuttle, of Hahnemann Hospital, a spectator, pronounced Matheson dead of a fractured skull. Mrs. Matheson collapsed in the stands and was carried to a first aid room.

William Reamp, of Harrisburg, crashed into a fence when his motorcycle failed to clear the pits in the 93rd lap. His leg was broken.

Norman Schryer, of Utica, N. Y., racing for the first time in big competition.

Family Records Presented At A Reunion in Newtown

NEWTOWN, Sept. 3—Six births, three marriages, and four deaths were reported at the 22nd annual reunion of descendants of Cyrus and Mary Ely Smith, held Saturday afternoon at the Newtown New Century Club home, here, with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Horne as host and hostess.

Harry Foster, Caspersville, was the presiding officer during the business meeting, with records in charge of Mrs. Robert Ely, Washington Crossing.
The officers were reelected for another term, Alfred Walton, Newtown, also being re-chosen as vice-president.

The marriages reported for the past year included the following: Miss Clara Shaw and Nathan Brady; Mrs. Eva Dodge and Cyrus E. Smith; Miss Margaret Condie and Harold H. Haefer.
The births were as follows: a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Jared Darlington; a daughter, Lydia Margaret, to Mr. and Mrs. John Brelsford, of Flemington; a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Turner, Richboro; a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holroyd, Trenton, N. J.;

The deaths during the past year were those of Mrs. Mary Ely Stout, Trenton, N. J.; Miss Alice C. Smith, Sunbury; and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Atkinson.

Arthur Smith, of Wycombe, who has completed the family genealogy from the time the family of John Smith emigrated to the United States from England in 1699 to the fifth generation, with records partially complete to the eighth and ninth generations represented on Saturday, plans to present before the family gathering next year a paper dealing with the invention of a plow by Robert Smith. This paper was prepared by the young historian to be read before members of Bucks County Historical Society. Robert Smith was the inventor of a new improvement of the plow, equipped with a cast-iron mold board.

Dinner was served at one o'clock.
The 1941 reunion will be held at the same place, on Saturday, August 23rd.

SELECT TWO NEW TEACHERS AT THE BENSALEM SCHOOLSMiss Frances Benner, Middletown Township; and Miss Marian Heffner Chosen

RE-EXAMINATION DATE

School Sessions To Get Under Way On Thursday, With One Session

The Bensalem Township 1940-1941 school term will begin Thursday, September 5th. Everything is in readiness for the opening of the term. All teachers but two who were members of the faculty during the past term will again be present to take their respective places for the opening this fall.

The two former teachers who will not be present are Miss Helen J. Miller of the Andalusia school, primary room; and Miss Rae Komenarski (deceased) of the elementary faculty of the Cornwells school. To take the place of Miss Miller in Andalusia, the board has just elected Miss Marian Heffner, of Lehighton, a graduate of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Miss Heffner comes most highly recommended from that institution.
To succeed Miss Komenarski in the Cornwells school, the board has chosen Miss Frances Benner, Langhorne R. D., a graduate of Temple University and West Chester State Teachers College.
Miss Benner likewise comes most highly recommended from both training schools.

"It is hoped that all new students will be prepared to produce certificates of birth, vaccination and transfer cards from the school last attended. If transfer cards are not available, report cards of the school last attended will be accepted until such time as proper transfer cards may be secured," states Samuel K. Faust, superintendent of schools.

Because of the fact that some former students in Bensalem schools were conditioned and need to take re-exam-

END OF FIRST YEAR OF WAR

As the war concludes its first year of action which has encompassed most of Europe, its climax is still to be reached. That climax is the attempted conquest of England. The preliminary stage has been set for that attempt. It is unlikely Hitler could avoid it if he would.

Initial air raids on England, which the Nazis called exploratory, were followed by a perceptible pause. Now Hitler's sky devils are again raining death and destruction on English towns. Royal Air Force bombers are retaliating effectively in Germany and in German-occupied territory.

Two developments at least may be covering up operations. One of them is the Berlin announcement that all of Britain is to be blockaded by air and sea. This may be to fix in the minds of the British that the war will continue largely in the air with no land invasion attempted. Another development is the placing in sporadic action of batteries of Big Berthas along the Channel coast. That can be for the purpose of directing British resistance to that quarter while the real blow slants to another point.

Some indications are reported that the forces of invasion are concentrating behind the Frisian Islands for a thrust at the lowlands of the southeastern coast. Whatever the Hitler blueprints call for, the British await the crisis with a confidence born of the fact that they have held their own in the air, that their sea supremacy is unbroken and that they are ready in arm and in heart for any blow at the seat of their empire.

CHILD ACCIDENT DEATHS DROP

Proof that the educational safety campaigns conducted regularly in the schools of this country are beginning to pay wholesome dividends is contained in the National Safety Council's 1940 yearbook, "Accident Facts." Just off the press, this enlightening document reports that the elementary and high school students of the nation established another safety mark in 1939.

These youngsters between the ages of 5 and 14 set the lowest estimated accidental death total in the records, which extend back to 1913. The accidental death total for this group was 6,250—a decrease of 5 per cent under 1938.

Since 1922, when a definite national program of safety education was inaugurated, accidental deaths to children between 5 to 14 years of age have decreased 37 per cent. This is substantially more than twice the reduction shown by any other age group. Among persons 15 to 24 years of age the 1939 rate was only 1 per cent less than 1922. The 25-44 age group showed a decrease of 44 per cent, but the 45-64 age group's accidental death rate for 1939 was up 6 per cent above the 1922 figure.

Since all age groups have been exposed to these national safety campaigns, it would look from the facts as if the youngsters of this country are a lot more adept than their elders at learning how to stay safe and avoid accidents. Or perhaps there's some truth in that old adage that an old dog cannot be taught new tricks.

What makes the size of the crowd at the Wilkie notification ceremonies more significant is the fact that it was not swelled by relievers hauled to the meeting in WPA trucks at the expense of the taxpayers.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

By Courier Staff Member

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issued at Bristol Dec. 5, 1878. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

At the annual election of the Bristol Building Association on Monday evening, William Kinsey was elected president; Samuel Swain, secretary; Charles E. Scott, treasurer; and William B. Baker, W. H. Booz, Jonathan Mimor, Charles York, J. H. Chambers, P. N. Booz and Robert W. Holt, directors. The annual report showed the balance in the treasury to be $699.39, and the amount invested $75,800. Of the old series of stock, 52 shares, amounting to $10,790, remain yet to be paid. The unincumbered assets of the association are $65,799.38.

The following officers were chosen at the meeting of Captain H. Clay Beatty Post, No. 73, G. A. R., to serve for the ensuing year: Burnett Landreth, post commander; Allen Garwood, senior vice-commander; Eugene Highland, junior commander; Thomas B. Harkins, quartermaster; Charles E. Scott, chaplain; William Bach, surgeon; officer of the day, William McEuen; officer of the guard, Thomas Donnet; ordinance sergeant, Charles Appleton.

The old Keystone Forge is now used for purposes entirely different from that for which it was originally constructed. It is now a popular place of amusement. The place is fixed up for a croquet ground, golf pitching, and target practice. Quite a number of our citizens, whose time hangs heavily on their hands, repair there day after day and indulge in these popular pastimes.

While making a landing at Doron's wharf last Monday morning, the strong wind then prevailing blew the steamboat Nelly White against the wharf, and her guards rested upon the wharf. The tug Josephine Lincoln was sent for, and she was soon safely towed out into the river.

Eugene Highland, clerk of quarter sessions, has appointed Winfield S. Donaldson, of Doylestown, his deputy. Mr. Highland will continue to reside in Bristol.

The Bristol Gas Company offers for sale $12,000 worth of bonds, bearing six per cent interest, and free of all taxes, at par.

A car load of apples was sold yesterday at auction at the freight depot, at prices ranging from $1.35 to $1.50 per barrel.

Richard Trudgen has made a further improvement at his furniture store by putting in another large bulk window.

The employees of the Keystone Fringe Mill will give their first annual ball at Cabene's hall on New Year's eve.

The steamboat "Twilight" has discontinued her Sunday trips for the season.

The first meeting of the Temperance Lyceum of the season was held last Tuesday evening at Cabene's hall.

The president, Samuel Swain, made some appropriate remarks upon the opening of the meeting. Mr. W. A. Lafferty then addressed the audience for about half an hour. He spoke in approbation of the lyceum system as a means of furthering the cause of temperance; referred to the past work accomplished in Bristol and this vicinity, and trusted his hearers would remember that, although much good had been done, there yet remained a great work to be accomplished before the enemy is overcome.

Thanksgiving day caused great havoc among the turkeys and fowls in the vicinity of Morrisville. E. P. Wright alone sending over two tons to New York.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

"What does Steven say?" Rue asked.

Angel answered directly and, she thought, honestly.

"He says the record's been broken for some time. Says it was in the book of records and he'd forgotten it was broken. Then the question of his alibi came up, and he remembered the broken record and realized that we might find it and believe it had been intentionally broken; it would (instead of proving that, if you heard the piece being played, Hendrie himself was playing it) tend to cast doubt upon it. It would look too pat, in other words, as if he wanted such a proof. So he took it out in the garden and hid it. He confessed to that quite freely," said Angel with a thoughtful look.

"Sounded true. Yet—yet suppose the record wasn't actually broken; suppose—look here, Mrs. Hatterick, didn't you say that he had been playing that particular piece for quite a long time that day?"

"I—I don't remember. I've been questioned so much about it. Perhaps I did say so. At any rate, as I remember it, he did play that particular piece quite a lot that day. But it's nothing unusual. It's one of his favorites."

"I looked at his phonograph. It's a radio attachment; and it's got one of those automatic things on it, so he can play several records without anybody having to change or turn it on and off. Thus for at least twenty minutes or so there could be continued sound of music—piano records—and actually no one near the phonograph. There would have been plenty of time for him to leave the studio, see the girl Julie Garder, induce her to take a drink of something with the poison in it and return to the studio, and no one would be the wiser."

"But—listen—why should he murder Julie?"

"He's engaged to Miss Pelham," said Angel obliquely. "There's another thing, Mrs. Hatterick. The bartender who claims that Julie Garder came into his place and had a drink—"

"Yes."

"We've arrested him. He turned out to be a fellow that's wanted for theft. It's the reason why he tried to evade the whole thing; he didn't want any attention from us at all. It was only a chance remark of his to the bus boy that led to our questioning him; he would never have come forward himself. The last thing he's inclined to do is to be of any help to us. So far he's not managed to remember who came into the restaurant with the girl. But I think he will remember—soon. We have ways of sharpening memory," said Angel simply.

"He—he said she was alone."

"Would she have ordered a cocktail, poured it into a potted palm and ordered another, if she'd been alone? No, the way we figure is she went there with somebody who insisted on her having a drink. She said all right, just to be agreeable; you—and the nurses who knew her—insist she never drank. Well, then she watched her chance and poured the cocktail into the plant at her elbow. The second cocktail she drank; perhaps her companion actually went to the bar to get it and put poison in it on the way to the table. We've ascertained that there was no waiter at that hour; it's a small place. So far the bartender has admitted nothing of the kind; but it sounds reasonable. Well, her companion could have been Steven Hendrie.

That restaurant is exactly two minutes from here by taxi. You wouldn't have noticed a lapse in the sound of the piano."

"That wasn't all the detective had to say."

"Then there are the letters," he went on. "Whoever wrote those letters knew something. You've been asked about those letters; we've made every possible inquiry. We may right now be on the right track; Funk thinks he's getting warm. But I—I want to impress upon you, Mrs. Hatterick, the importance of those letters. If you are innocent . . ."

He looked at her in silence for a moment. "If you are innocent I can't put too strongly the importance that the discovery of those letters might be to you. Do you understand?"

"But I don't know who wrote them. I know nothing of them," said Rue hopelessly.

He looked at her searchingly, then went to the door. "Tell Funk to come in here," he said to someone outside. And when the little Funk slipped sideways, scared-looking, nose too clean—into the room, Angel said: "Show her the chart."

"The chart?" cried Rue.

"It was in the maid's room, crumpled up in the wastebasket as if she'd torn it off. Lord knows why. Perhaps she recognized its importance and tried, thus, to preserve it; perhaps she tossed it there merely because it was crumpled. We'll never know."

She took the sheet of paper; it was the usual printed form with a few entries in Julie's small, round handwriting. It was probably the last sheet on the pad. The date was November ninth, the exact date of Crystal's death.

"You recognize it?" said Angel. Rue nodded.

"Read the entries," said Angel. She was already reading; searching for the thing that chart must disclose.

But there was nothing of any significance at all on the chart. It was all regular, nothing unusual. Meals as usual, two visits from Andy duly noted, one at eleven in the morning and another about six in the evening, temperature slightly below normal, pulse perfectly normal, no special orders. Perhaps that was it.

"Find something, Mrs. Hatterick?"

"N-no," said Rue slowly, "unless it's an omission. She, Mrs. Hatterick, said that her medicine tasted different; as I remember it she said (I've told you) that Andy—Doctor Crittenden—that is—had changed her medicine that day, although she may have said 'he must have' changed it. She may have been referring only to the taste. Without certain knowledge, I mean. She must have been, because if there'd been a change in the medicine Julie would have made a note of it. Julie was extremely conscientious. She wouldn't have omitted to note a change in medicine or orders. And there is no change noted here."

After a moment Angel said: "Is that all?"

She knew he was disappointed. As she was herself, the charts had loomed so large in the thing; unconsciously she had pinned hope to discovery. And for that day—there was nothing.

"Where are the others?" she said. Angel's long face lengthened further.

"Whoever killed the girl, Rachel, undoubtedly has destroyed them by now," he said. "Do you have any idea, Mrs. Hatterick, why Rachel

World Premiere of Saroyan Play Hailed at New Hope

One of the most important events of the summer theatre season occurred last night when the Bucks County Playhouse at New Hope presented the world premiere of a new comedy by William Saroyan titled "Something About A Soldier." Mr. Saroyan is the Zinc, Auto Boys, Madison, Ford V-8, and the New York Drama Critics Circle Award for his comedy, "The Time of Your Life."

The Labor Day premiere at the Bucks County Playhouse marked the first time that a new play has been produced at New Hope. Mr. Saroyan, who lives in San Francisco, came east for the initial production of his play, and will probably be present at other performances during the week.

"Something About A Soldier" has a large cast of New York players and is being staged by Jose Ferrer, well known as both actor and director. Crahan Denton, who acted with Paul Muni in "Key Largo" last season, plays the role of an internationally famous 70-year-old author who seeks to become a soldier. Rejected for military service, he digs a trench in his front yard and takes up arms against the world's political leaders. Dicky Van Patten acts his adopted 11-year-old son, who goes to war with him.

Alfred Etcheverry is cast as a newspaperman, while others in the cast include Katherine Emery, Said Riza, Tom Elliott and Howard Freeman. Morton L. Stevens, Carter Blake and Frieda Altman from the regular acting roster of the Bucks County Playhouse are also in the cast.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By Howard L. Zepp, Th. M.)

Father in heaven, hasten the day when all men shall question the patriotism of war, the exploitation of labor and the ruthlessness of competitive business; when all men and nations shall be brothers; when the hurt of the weakest shall be the concern of all and the advantage of any shall be the good of all. Amen.

Landing of a plane in the middle of a street to pick up the wounded during a raging gun battle, pursuing a bandit's car by plane, and shooting of the villain from the plane's cabin while both are in flight are some of the difficult flying maneuvers a couple of courageous "leathernecks" engage in.

example of this is the Cleveland Plain Dealer, which for a hundred years has supported every Democratic candidate—including, of course, Mr. Roosevelt. The Scripps Howard chain of sixteen, all of which supported Mr. Roosevelt in 1936, also has swung away on this issue, and so, too, has the Baltimore Sun, which four years ago was neutral.

BUT, even more than by the swing of the metropolitan press, the third-termers are perturbed by the change in the small-town and rural press. In various sections little papers which have been invariably Democratic are outspoken against the third term. In Virginia, Maryland, New Jersey and many other States, for the first time, these are against the Democratic nominee. A typical illustration is the Hampshire Review of West Virginia, owned by ex-Gov. John Cornwell, who was a delegate to the Chicago Convention.

ASKING what a Democratic paper which wants to be honest can do except tell its readers the truth, the Review editorially says: "The pretense that Mr. Roosevelt was drafted for a third term is so thin and transparent as to be silly. It was planned and accomplished by Federal office-holders with the President's aid and, under his direction, climaxed and rounded up by political machine heads—such humanitarians as Frank Hague, of Jersey City, and Mayor Kelly, of Chicago, who, having seen what happened to Boss Pendergast, of Kansas City, believed their best chance to stay out of trouble and in power was to join with Harry Hopkins, Harold Ickes and the other drafters. They did such a good job, particularly Kelly, whose aides packed the convention with thousands of as tough-looking guys as Al Capone ever marshaled."

IT is this sort of stuff from this sort of small-time paper that worries the New Deal outfit more than the defection of 1936 supporting papers in the big cities. Yet it is the city press upon which the attack—so it is stated—is planned. Naturally, the expectation is that it will be led by Mr. Ickes, who has specialized in newspaper vituperation more than any of the other Administration mouthpieces. He has written a book on the subject. It is, as the politicians slangily say, "Harold's dish." There is nothing he likes better than to snarl at the press. It satisfies certain inherent instincts of his curious nature and at the same time gratifies a highly developed desire for publicity.

HE never overlooks an opportunity and already seems to have laid down his preliminary 1940 barrage. In a very long letter to the New York Times, which that paper printed in full, he denounced the press in general, and the New York Times in particular because it had referred to some of the more abusive expressions in his reply to Mr. Willkie's speech as "muddling." At the same time chiding Senator Bridges, Republican, for calling Mr. Ickes a "short-pants Hitler." Mr. Ickes made this an excuse for impugning the motives and integrity of the Times and a general indictment of the newspapers.

THE best refutation of this type of accusation, as well as evidence of its futility, would seem to be the fact that the newspapers continue to print them long after they cease to be news. There certainly is no compulsion upon the part of the newspapers to print Mr. Ickes' frequent effusions, and if newspapers were conducted as Mr. Ickes says they are conducted, of course they would not print them. It is doubtful that Mr. Ickes believes in his own charges, but it does seem that by this time the hollowness of his allegations about the newspapers might be apparent to everybody who reads them in the newspapers.

Landreth Team Wins Over Johnson's Stars At Atlantic City

FINAL SCORE IS 4 TO 2

Game Was Interesting and Exciting and Crowd Enjoyed It

Landreth's Seeds defeated Johnson's Stars at Atlantic City yesterday afternoon in a very close, interesting and exciting ball game, 4-2. There was a large crowd of the colored folk on hand to cheer on their favorites and certainly had a wonderful time up until the 7th inning when Landreth scored the final two and exciting runs.

Chambers was on the mound for the Stars and struck out nine of the "Farmers," but allowed ten hits. "Al" Carey for Landreth only struck out six but held the colored boys to six hits; three of them coming in the first two innings. The Stars scored once in the first inning on Moore getting safe on an error by Griggs. Lambert then singled and scored when Weeks hit to left field. They made their second run in the second inning. Moore singled, went to second when Lambert was thrown out at first and scored on Johnson's hit to second.

"The Farmers" tied the score in the second inning. Rossi received a base on balls and scored on Griggs' home run over the right field fence.

There was no more scoring except in the seventh inning when Breslin got a base on balls and scored on Lodge's two-base hit and Claude scored on Harwi's single.

Lambert played a fine game at short and Hammond made a sparkling catch and Breslin's two fine running catches. The best hitters were Weeks, with three singles and Capt. Bill Griggs who had a walk, a single, a double and a home run.

The "Farmers" will play at Landreth Ball Park next Sunday.

Attractive Wedding In St. Ann's Church

Miss Elvira DiCesare, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nazareno DiCesare, 318 Lincoln avenue, was united in marriage Sunday at 2:30 p. m., to Mr. Joseph Antonelli, son of John Antonelli, 515 Jefferson avenue.

The father of the bride gave her in marriage, and the Rev. Father Peter Pinci, priest of St. Ann's parish, performed the wedding ceremony in St. Ann's Church.

The attendants of the bride were inclusive of Miss Edith Gerome, McKinley street, maid of honor; the Misses Anna Manocchi, Wood street, and Pasquale Speco, Haverstraw, N. Y., as bridesmaids; and Norma Bagnarelli, Cleveland street, flower girl.

Serving Mr. Antonelli as best man was Mr. Joseph Mattoli, Chestnut street, and the usher was Mr. Thomas Grantomass, Lafayette street.

Brocaded bridal satin formed the dress of the bride. The neckline was heart-shaped, and the long sleeves ended in a point over the hands. The full skirt with lengthy train was attached to a form-fitting bodice, and the gown was self-trimmed. The white tulle veil fell from a coronet of pearls and brilliants. The bride's sandals were of satin, and she carried a shower bouquet of mixed white flowers.

The four attendants were dressed alike, the material of their dresses being ribbon taffeta in poudre blue shade. Sweetheart necklines, fitted bodices with gathered tops, and short puffed sleeves made the gowns attractive, and the floor-length skirts were cut full. Each attendant wore a wide-brimmed felt hat and doekins slippers to match their gowns.

The reception which followed at the DiCesare residence was attended by 100 guests; and prior to the ceremony dinner was served there to members of the families of the contracting parties. Following a week's stay in New York City, Mr. Antonelli and bride will reside at 318 Lincoln avenue.

Fire Damages Restaurant Near Langhorne Speedway

SOUTH LANGHORNE, Sept. 3.—The restaurant operated by Joseph Neamic, Lincoln Highway, near the Langhorne Speedway, was damaged by fire Sunday morning at 11:30, but with early arrival of firemen from surrounding towns the blaze was confined chiefly to the roof.

Four companies responded to the alarm. South Langhorne, Hulmeville, Langhorne and Parkland, and early appearance of William Penn Company of Hulmeville with its new 300-gallon tank wagon is credited with keeping the fire at a minimum, together with streams provided upon the arrival of a 500-gallon tank wagon from Langhorne. This was the first time that Hulmeville company's new apparatus was brought into play. The firemen were kept busy for a half hour.

Cause of the blaze has not yet been determined, the fire being discovered in the cornice. Damage is placed at a few hundred dollars. The restaurant was opened for business again on the holiday.

HULMEVILLE

William Penn Fire Company members will meet at 7:45 o'clock Friday evening in the fire station, instead of eight.

Labor Day was passed by Mr. and Mrs. John F. Corrigan, Jr., and Robert Corrigan, in Philadelphia, as guests of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Corrigan, Sr.

Local scholastic high schools will begin the long grid of practice sessions in preparation for the new fall sport season which is just around the corner. All coaches in this vicinity are back from vacations and are set to open practice sessions when school reopens this week. Coach George Reimer of Bensalem announced he will begin practice on the school field Friday afternoon. Coach Tom Campion of Bristol is expected to open sessions tomorrow afternoon, while coach Charlie Beck at Langhorne and coach Myers at Newtown, the only new coach in the Lower Bucks Conference this year, will also start tomorrow afternoon.

Morrisville, as usual, got the jump on the rest of the schools with their week's training up the Perkiomen Creek but will begin drills on the home grounds this week.
